Our daily brew stirs retail sales.

Each day before presstime, award winning professionals mix several ingredients that add lots of local flavor to the North Shore's leading newspaper. It all boils up to experience and intuition that our readers appreciate. Advertisers value it, because interested readers stir retail sales. Our brew is the most popular in the marketplace. The Salem Evening News circulates to more households in Salem, Danvers, Peabody, Marblehead, and Beverly than both Boston dailies. A.M. and P.M. by bigger circulation numbers than you might expect. We're the big News in surrounding communities, too. If you would like to start sales stirring on the North Shore, contact our advertising department at 617-744-0600. They can perform some real sales magic. The Salem Evening News, we've got a strong household readership that can get your cauldron boiling.

When you put your ad in the daily News, it ends up in some very nice neighborhoods. To be specific, we reach a rather substantial 13.3% more adults in households with $20,000+ incomes than Detroit's number two paper. We also reach more adults, period. Including more 18 to 24, more 25 to 34, and more 35 to 49 year olds. It's just this simple. If you want to go places, you need The News.

The Detroit News
If you read The News you know

High income. Youth. Total adults.
The Detroit News introduces you to all the right people.

Kansas City is a special market for retail specialty stores. This partial list contains a few of the companies that have already made that discovery.
Consider expanding your business in Kansas City where 242 of Fortune's 500 firms have already located.
You'll enjoy a strong retail environment where the average household effective buying income for the 7 county metro area is $23,273.

You'll also be able to reach and sell this affluent market with one newspaper buy. The Kansas City Times and Star reach 558,000 adult readers every day and 658,000 on Sunday. That includes daily coverage of 70% of adults with household incomes of $25,000 or more. On Sunday, that figure rises to 78%.

NEW YORK, N.Y.

1—LOCATION: (Bronx, Kings, New York, Queens and Richmond counties). On E&P Map F-6. Eastern seaboard; largest city in U.S.A. in mfg. imports, exports and retail sales; important financial, publishing and garment center. More than 60% of the U.S. garment industry is within the New York Metropolitan area. United Nations Headquarters, about 10 million visitors annually.

The Port of New York and New Jersey, the nation's primary gateway for international commerce, handled more than 58.6 billion in trade goods in 1979, nearly half again the value of the second place port. It covers 1,500 square miles in the two States, generally within a 25-mile radius of the Statue of Liberty.

2—TRANSPORTATION: Railroads: Conrail, with connecting service throughout the United States, and six terminal railroads furnish service to industrial and marine facilities.

Motor Freight: 10,000 registered common carrier trucks serve the Port District each business day. Over 420 carriers provide local and long haul service.

Steamship Service: ships of 150 steamship lines and agencies carry cargoes and passengers from and to all the leading ports of the world. The New York City Passenger Ship Terminal on the Hudson River between 48th and 52nd Streets served 365,664 passengers on over 300 ships in 1979, mostly on cruises.

Bus Service: During 1979, the Port Authority Bus Terminal in mid-town Manhattan handled about two million buses and 55 million passengers. On a typical weekday in 1979, approximately, 6,200 buses, carrying almost 170,000 passengers, used the Bus Terminal. It provides centrally located terminal facilities for direct and connective bus travel between the New York Metropolitan area and virtually any point in the continental United States, Canada and Mexico. The Bus Terminal is located one block from Times Square at 41st Street and Eighth Avenue. A $180 million expansion and modernization project is under way, with the first elements operational in 1979. The George Washington Bridge in Upper Manhattan serves about 28,000 passengers on some 1,200 buses on a typical weekday. It is located on the New York approaches to the great bridge between 178th and 179th Streets.

Scheduled Airlines and Certified Cargo Carriers

Airports: The regional airport system serving the New York-New Jersey metropolitan area, operated by the Port Authority, comprises John F. Kennedy International and LaGuardia Airports in Queens and Newark International and Teterboro Airports in northern New Jersey. Together, they handle about 2,000 commercial plane movements a day. Kennedy handles most international flights and long haul domestic movements. The Air Cargo Center, largest in the world, handles about a million tons a year between major cities in the United States and worldwide markets. LaGuardia handles short and medium range flights. Newark International, recently rebuilt by the Port Authority, handles both domestic and international flights, and has a cargo center second in size only to Kennedy Airport. Teterboro, operated by Pan American World Airways under agreement with the Authority, handles general aviation traffic only.
